

THE ROLE: WEB DEVELOPER

Business Bullpen is seeking a full-time or contract-to-hire Web Developer to work on a variety of projects for our growing client list. Candidates must be comfortable collaborating in teams and possess the self-discipline to work independently.

The ideal candidate should:

- Have experience writing code in C# and / or PHP and applicable web frameworks
- Be familiar with MVC, RESTful web service architecture
- Not mind writing SQL scripts
- Be a champion of Web standards, progressive enhancement, usability, accessibility
- Understand the separation of layers: content, presentation, behavior
- Find cross-browser support a challenge, not a chore
- Be able to quickly learn and effectively apply new technologies and concepts
- Come ready to share their experiences and learn from others
- Be able to respectfully disagree from time to time
- Have communication skills
- Love music (not required, but a big plus in this office)

We're looking for a problem solver. Book smarts are valuable but will only get you so far here. We put a lot of weight on your ability to develop ideas and solutions to unfamiliar problems that will help grow our organization and your career. Candidates can expect to work on multiple projects at once. The position will provide the opportunity to work at multiple client sites, the Business Bullpen home office, and remotely. Small amount of travel should be expected.

THE ORGANIZATION: BUSINESS BULLPEN, LLC

Business Bullpen was founded in July 2005. We provide a variety of Web-related services for clients, including Web app development, e-commerce and content management solutions, social media application integrations, project management, requirements analysis, graphic design, print collateral, and online marketing services.

We are a young, dynamic organization looking for people who have the drive and desire to build a business from the ground up. Business Bullpen offers a flexible work schedule and generous vacation package that enables us to have a well-balanced lifestyle. We have an extensive library of music, a Keurig, a water cooler, a toaster oven, and an awesome team of Web professionals with varied backgrounds.

Our client list ranges from start-ups to non-profits to well-established corporations across the country.

You can find out more about us on the Web at businessbullpen.com.

THE LOCATION: CHARLOTTESVILLE, VIRGINIA

Our offices are located right on the Charlottesville Downtown Mall, the epicenter for all things food, music, and tech in the foothills of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

If you have made it this far and think you are a good fit, get us a snapshot of your ninja skills ASAP. Send your resume and cover letter to help@businessbullpen.com.

Untrustworthy, shifty candidates need not apply. We like speaking to references!
